FOOD POLICY ACTION

Food Policy Action was established in 2012 through a collaboration of national food policy leaders in order to hold legislators accountable on votes that have an effect on food and farming. Our goal is to change the national dialogue on food policy by educating the public on how elected officials are voting on these issues.

Our mission is to highlight the importance of food policy and to promote policies that support healthy diets, reduce hunger at home and abroad, improve food access and affordability, uphold the rights and dignity of food and farm workers, increase transparency, improve public health, reduce the risk of food-borne illness, support local and regional food systems, protect and maintain sustainable fisheries, treat farm animals humanely and reduce the environmental impact of farming and food production. Food Policy Action promotes positive policies through education and publication of the National Food Policy Scorecard.

Through education and the National Food Policy Scorecard, more people will be armed with the information they need to vote with their forks and elect more food policy leaders across the country.

HOW VOTES ARE SCORED

The National Food Policy Scorecard is your go-to source for information about the most important food policy legislation considered by the House and Senate each year. The Scorecard reflects the consensus of top food policy experts who select the key food policy votes, bills and amendments each year. The scored food policy issues include domestic and international hunger, food safety, food access, farm subsidies, animal welfare, food and farm labor, nutrition, food additives, food transparency, local and regional food production, sustainable fisheries, organic farming and the effects of food production on the environment. The National Food Policy Scorecard lets you identify which legislators are working for sensible food policies.

WELCOME TO THE 113TH CONGRESS

NATIONAL FOOD POLICY SCORECARD

Since 2012, Food Policy Action has been educating the public with factual, non-partisan information on how their elected officials vote on a full range of food policy issues. From organic agriculture, to child nutrition and animal welfare, we provide information so that you can hold your legislators accountable when important food policy legislation comes to Congress.

The truth is, consumers want to know where their food comes from, and they want to have confidence that what they are feeding their families is safe, nutritious and contaminant free. Outside of Washington, issues like food access and affordability are more important than ever.

For the first time, Food Policy Action is working on bridging the gap between what consumers expect to see from their food system, and the kind of policies Washington is delivering.

Since starting the Scorecard three years ago, we have seen big changes in Washington as it relates to our food system. The 2013 Farm Bill finally passed both the House and Senate and was signed into law on February 7, 2014.

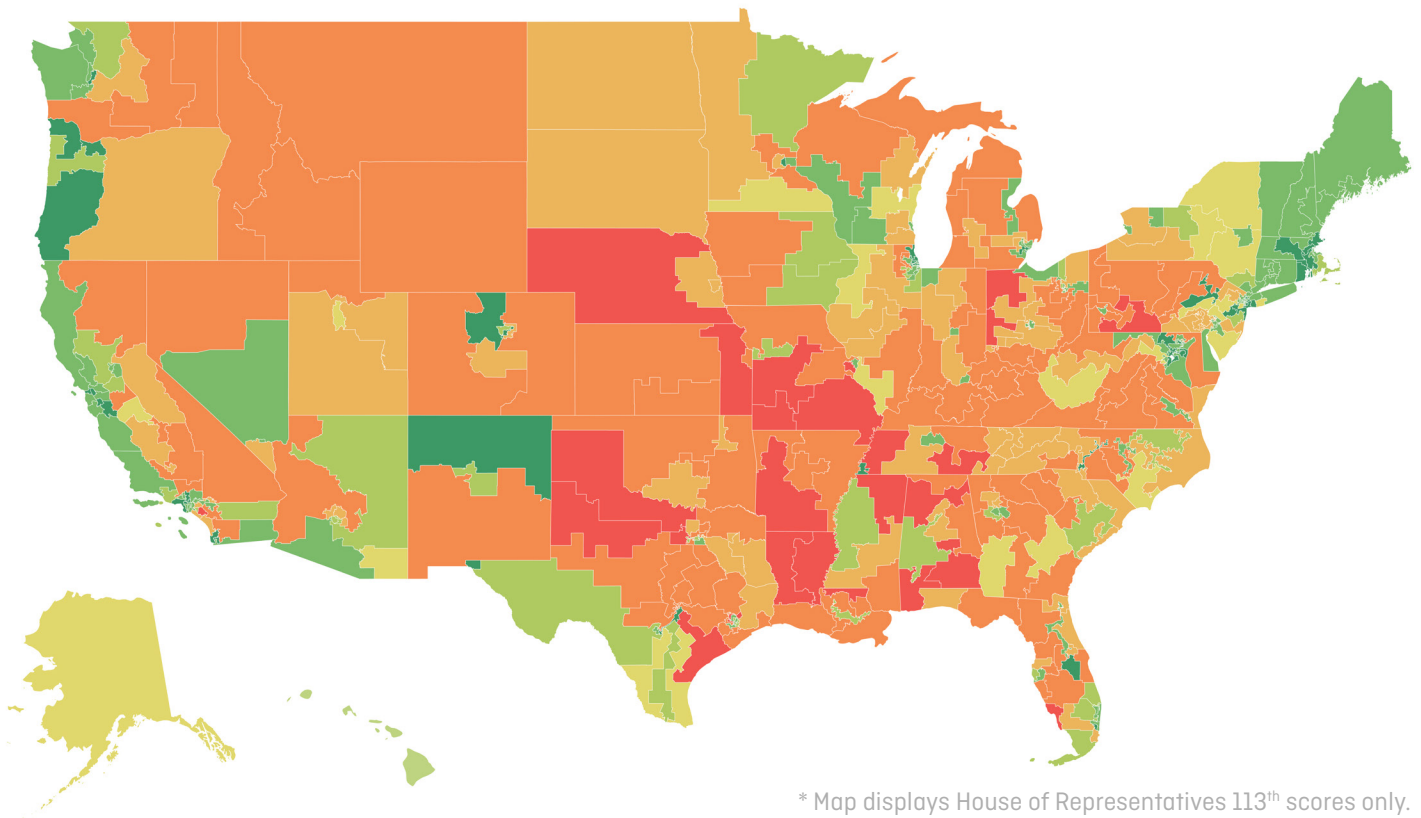

While you will see many amendments in the House and Senate scored in the 113th Congress scorecard, final passage of the Farm Bill is not. Ultimately the final version of the bill left very big winners and losers, and a simple good or bad recognition wouldn't do justice to the complex policy decisions that make up the 2013 Farm Bill.

After nearly two years of debate, the final version of the bill included funding for many important sustainable agriculture programs, as well as important policy changes for organic and local agriculture, conservation compliance and International Food Aid. At the same time, the final version of the bill included an $8.6 billion cut to SNAP, and failed to reform commodity and crop insurance programs. The result was a bill with very big winners and losers. It is our hope that Food Policy Action will be able to positively score final passage of the farm bill in the future, but the 2013 was not a clear win for good food policy.

FINAL PASSAGE OF THE 2014 FARM BILL

H.R. 2642 To provide for the reform and continuation of agricultural and other programs of the Department of Agriculture through fiscal year 2018.

Vote Info: After nearly two years of debate, the Farm Bill was signed into law on February 7, 2014. At the same time, the final version of the bill included an $8.6 billion cut to SNAP, and failed to reform commodity and crop insurance programs.

The result was a bill with very big winners and losers. The 113th National Food Policy Scorecard includes several votes on farm bill amendments and policy, but it does not score the sum of its parts. The bill stalls legalization processes until construction is completed and 24/7 border surveillance requirements are met. While advocates organized for full and fair legalization processes for the 11 million undocumented people living in the US, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimates that only 40-60% of immigrants will achieve citizenship because of many obstacles in a lengthy process. The bill also creates a separate category for agricultural workers, making them eligible for immigrant status after working a specified amount of time, paying a fine, and passing background checks.

FINAL PASSAGE OF THE 2014 FARM BILL

H.R. 2642 Federal Agricultural Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013

Vote Info: After nearly two years of debate, the Farm Bill was signed into law on February 7, 2014. The final version of the bill included funding for many important sustainable agriculture programs, as well as important policy changes for organic and local agriculture, conservation compliance and International Food Aid. At the same time, the final version of the bill included an $8.6 billion cut to SNAP, and failed to reform commodity and crop insurance programs.

The result was a bill with very big winners and losers. The 113th National Food Policy Scorecard includes several votes on farm bill amendments and policy, but it does not score the sum of its parts. Food Policy Action hopes that it will be able to positively score final passage of the farm bill in the future, but the 2014 bill was not a clear win for good food policy.

Date of vote: 2/4/2014 Roll Call: House No. 21
Session: Second Session Passed: 68 - 32
